...When Seconds Count

When a crisis strikes, your school and district need to have the ability to react quickly and manage the condition with an immediate and appropriate response.

The First Responders in our schools are the teachers and administrators already on-site. Telecor's AssureCom™ gives them the communication tools they need as conditions change, when seconds count most.

Telecor's graphical navigation is quick, easy, and effective for managing a crisis.

In every school and district the first step in managing a crisis is to communicate. AssureCom™ is comprehensive and fast and can help the occupants of your schools find safety in an unsafe situation.

Telecor's AssureCom™ solutions provide flexible support to your staff to manage a crisis. By adapting to the existing response plans, AssureCom™ increases the likelihood of a successful execution of those plans.

AssureCom™ is designed to be there and work with you at a moment's notice.

Since 1980, Telecor™ has been at the forefront of school communications system design. Telecor's understanding and expertise is the solution to your requirements, whether your facility's needs are to maintain or expand legacy communications technology, looking towards the future with network-based digital communications, or in search of a migration pathway that includes both.

Telecor's AssureCom™ is a complete solution to the everyday and emergency communication needs of our K-12 clients. A multi-tiered communications approach including audio, signage, SMS, email and computer pop-up notification assures your messages get to your intended recipients, every time. Whether your most important needs are based on day-to-day communication, time and messaging, or establishing a quick and easy solution to help you manage the "when", AssureCom is the complete solution.

AssureCom™ is flexible and provides for managed growth and works regardless of what manufacturer's intercom systems are in your schools. The AssureCom™ advantage includes 24-hour monitoring for system integrity across the district so you can be confident that AssureCom™ is always there, always on, and always ready to help you meet any of your communication challenges.
